TECH TALK Newsletter

HUB TECH

How can virtualization save your business?

Used with permission from HP Technology at Work

Winter is a time when Mother Nature reminds us that even the best laid plans can go wrong. Protect your small or midsized business from the unexpected by implementing virtualization technologies to optimize resources, improve application availability, and reduce downtime.

Virtualization saves. Pooling server, storage, and network resources takes advantage of spare capacity and saves money on space, utility costs, and administrative effort. At the same time, virtualization provides opportunities for failover and load-balancing, resulting in greater application and data availability.

-✪- Read more »

Let HUB Tech show you how to lower your total cost of ownership.
Request an Assessment

A Word About Passwords

used with permission from FTC Business Center Blog
by Lesley Fair

On the old game show "Password," the host whispered a word to contestants, who then gave clues to celebrities. The first to guess correctly advanced to the Lighting Round. The loser went home with a year's supply of car wax.

The legacy of "Password" lives on, but in the 21st century version, hackers use tidbits they know about your employees to guess their passwords. The winner gets the grand prize: access to the information on your system. What can you do to help send hackers home with the car wax?

-✪- Read more »

Cyber Security Best Practices for Employees

HUB TECH TALK

used with permission from Norton by Symantec
by Nadia Kovacs

Employees are on the front lines of information security. The more that can be done to regularly educate yourself of the small things you can do can go a long way towards protecting your organization.

Since it is the beginning of the year, many people are returning to work and trying to get out of "vacation mode." (Us too!) We've decided to outline some tips to help you throughout the year to stay safe online while protecting your company in the process.

-◇- Read more »

Questions about security? Our HUB Tech in-house security specialist can help.
Contact us for a Security Assessment.

"All I'm saying is before you spend all that money on a nose job, maybe buy a peeler."

Monthly Quote

"A day without sunshine is like, you know, night."

—Steve Martin

Business Continuity Tip

Don't Get Caught in the Cold

As millions break out their heavy coats and bundle up for the cold temperatures, one thing is clear - winter is officially here.

And with the arrival of bone chilling temperatures, so comes the increased risk to your organization and your home including:

Read more »